

Telelingua Project Solutions

ORBIS Combined Solution

The Telelingua Group is the worldwide operating provider of the Orbis solution: starting with consulting, through the design of processes and workflows, up to standard translation production, the entire value chain is covered for you.

State-of-the-art solutions for translation production - tailored to your requirements

Telelingua Project Solutions specializes in the coordination of translation projects, consulting, automation, selection and coordination of translation agencies, training project managers, and process optimization. This ensures that the solutions created are always tailored to your individual needs.

In detailed consultations, Telelingua will work out your individual needs with you. This way you can be sure that the services provided always meet your needs. You can rely on the in-depth knowledge of an industry expert to put together the optimal service package for you.

In order to keep pace with the ever-increasing global demand for localized content and the associated high translation costs, new approaches and strategies are needed to manage in-house translation services. Telelingua Project Solutions focuses on you - as a company with unique requirements and your specific individual challenges in the fields of translation, interpreting, terminology or quality assurance.

You benefit from Telelingua's 30 years of experience and the know-how Telelingua has as a renowned language industry expert. With extensive knowledge of global and local market structures, TPS has the expertise to build a Language Management Center with in-depth process knowledge in the core areas of translation, interpreting, terminology, and quality assurance.

Careful preparation is essential to maximize the productivity and to limit the costs of subsequent translation and interpreting assignments. The solution offered by Telelingua Project Solutions includes individual consulting and process setup to reduce costs, increase productivity, and minimize your risk - all of this, of course, always in line with your defined quality standards.
